WELCOME!

Hello Parents,

We had a fantastic week that we are so excited to tell you about. Here is what is happening in our classes this week...

Step 1 class began their week learning about the different techniques in how to cook various vegetables, as well as how they are prepared and what utensils are used. The children got to do fun activities like a neat sensory play project of using cooking utensils to play in rice. They also got to explore how to peel Irish potatoes in which they made them into chips and practiced their cooking skills by boiling sweet corn on the cob. When food is a part of learning it's always interesting. How cool is it to learn major life skills like peeling, boiling, cutting and many more?! These kids sure enjoyed!!

Step 2 class continued on with our theme of vegetables and discovered many fun and delicious ways to prepare vegetable dishes. This week the children got to make tomato sauce, and vegetable salads. As well as they had made fun crafts like a pumpkin out of paper and made a cool item out of corn/maize. The children not only got to know how important vegetables are to our diets but revealed their fine motors by cooking.

In our step 3 class the children explored the great arctic by learning all about polar bears. Did you know polar bears only appear white, their fur is actually transparent? It only looks white, because it reflects visible light. Under their fur, polar bear skin is actually black. These fun facts are just some of the interesting things these kids have been learning this week. Other fun topics they have been going over are like the life span, all about hibernation and habitats of polar bears. How neat is that? Following these great points the children have been doing fun and creative activities, for example making a polar bear out of paper plates and they used ice, and shortening to get the chemical reaction to see how a polar bear stays warm. Very cool!
